Dear Mr Ashton - Johnson,

Despite our attempt to contact you which you have left unanswered, we have researched your averment that you attended the Ronin SA CP Course and have found no evidence of this at all.

We are left with the conclusion that you have uttered this information to recruiters fraudulently.

To protect our reputation we have taken the considered step of adding your details and the evidence of your utterings, to our Wall of Shame. This can be viewed by you at www.ronin.co.za.

We expect and indeed await your full and unconditional apology regarding same.

We view your utterances in a very serious light and reserve our right to proceed against you for same. We prevail on you to cease and desist in claiming that you are a Ronin SA graduate or have attended any aspect of our training. You will also never be afforded the privilege of attending any training at Ronin SA into the future.

Kind regards

Timm

Dear Mr Ashton Johnson,

We have been approached to verify your learning with us and have run into difficulty locating your learner records.

We therefor request your kind assistance in pinpointing the exact month and year of your training with us to better allow us to fulfill the request of the employer.

Apologies for the brevity of this email as it was sent from my iPad

Kind regards

Dear Tyler,

We refer you to the evidence on the website and call for your comments thereon, as it contradicts your statements below, only aggravating your situation.

The potential employer with whom you were discussing where you had done your course, happens to be an esteemed graduate willing to go on record regarding same.

Your continued denials do not serve your cause.

Apologies for the brevity of this email as it was sent from my iPad

Kind regards

Timm

Hi Tim,

This is the first email I've received from you...

I've never once said I attended a Ronin course, I attended my CP course with a company called free to learn based in London.

I don't know who you've heard it from but I've never once said anything like that.

I understand Ronin is a very good course and I know many guys that have attended it and I wouldn't claim to of done something I haven't done or claim I've done a course in which I haven't done.

I can only apologise if theirs been a mistake but like I said I've never attended your course.

I've always told my employers who I've done my course with and shown them my certificates which also states who I completed my course with.

Again I can only apologise if someone has said anything different.

Kind regards

Tyler
